of the lead. Mike Cole was sitting in third with only six points out of the lead. Charlie Melchner was sitting fourth with only 13 points out of the lead.

Going into the third obstacle, Gavin Lewis had a lot of pressure on him. Les Allen, Mike Cole, and Charlie Melchner were experienced winners in rock-crawling competition. Each of those teams would score very high on the third obstacle. Les Allen would find himself scoring the lowest of the top four and would find himself in a position he had not been in, the lead. He took the lead from Lewis by just three points. Lewis was now back with Mike Cole for second place. Charlie Melchner also pulled himself rather six points off the lead.

The final obstacle would be a show-stopper as it was anybody's event to win. Charlie Melchner set a very low score of -2. He finished the event with a score of 129. Could this be enough to win? Mike Cole scored 27 points and finished with a score of 156. Gavin Lewis' score of 35 would send him behind Mike Cole in the standings. The question was could Les Allen beat the score of Melchner and take the win at his home event in Spartanburg? Unfortunately for Allen his score of 27 would drop him from the lead to second and would hand Charlie Melchner his first win at the Rock Eastern National Series Pro Mod Red Class. The win would also hand Jack Bortio his first win the W.C. Rock Eastern National Series Pro Mod Red Class.
